The Rarest Gemstone on Earth

Tanzanite is found in only one place on earth — a tiny strip of land near Mount Kilimanjaro in Tanzania. Geologists estimate it is a thousand times rarer than diamonds, making it one of the most collectible gemstones of the modern era.

Its most remarkable property is trichroism — the ability to display three different colours (violet, blue, and burgundy) depending on the viewing angle and light source. Our lab-grown tanzanite replicates this exact optical phenomenon with perfect clarity.

Care & Longevity

Daily Care

Storage

Professional Cleaning

Wipe gently with a soft lint-free cloth after each wear. Remove before swimming, applying perfume, or using hand creams to preserve the stone's brilliance.

Store in the provided dry pouch, away from harder gemstones. Tanzanite's Mohs 6.5 hardness means it should be kept separate to prevent surface scratching.

We recommend professional ultrasonic cleaning twice a year — included free as part of our lifetime care promise with every Renaissance Jewel purchase.
